Keynote Presentation

Relationships First: The Pathway to Supporting Social and Emotional Development

Providers and parents alike are on the front lines to support children's social and emotional development. In this presentation, Dr. Delahooke will provide supportive guidance based on the latest research and neuroscience for children diagnosed with developmental and learning differences, autism, speech delays, sensory processing disorders, medical conditions and emotional or behavioral challenges. Participants will come away with practical strategies that are provided within loving and engaged relationships, providing help and hope for young children and their families.

Mona Delahooke, Ph.D.

Mona M. Delahooke, Ph.D. is a Clinical Psychologist specializing in the development of children and families. She is an infant mental health specialist, and works widely with multi-disciplinary teams supporting children with developmental or emotional delays. She is a faculty member of the Early Intervention Training Institute of the Los Angeles Child Guidance Clinic and is a senior training faculty member of the Profectum Foundation. Dr. Delahooke is the author of Social and Emotional Development in Early Intervention: A Skills Guide for Working with Children. (2017) Currently in private practice in Arcadia, California, she consults with parents, preschools, public agencies and school districts in the areas of developmental screening, assessment and intervention for children and their families.

No Children at the Symposium, Please!

Out of respect to all attendees, we ask that children not be brought to the Symposium.

AM BREAKOUT SESSIONS..... 10:45 am – Noon

1. Social Emotional Milestones for Children from birth to 3 years

- Mona Delahooke, Ph.D.

Understanding social and emotional milestones is critical to providing excellent care to young children and their families. This workshop will describe the six social and emotional milestones of Axis V of the DC:0-3R. Descriptions of the milestones will be accompanied by video examples showing typical acquisition as well as challenges in milestone development. Participants will learn the importance of helping children achieve the earlier milestones as a solid foundation for future development, reflecting a neurodevelopmental hierarchy that will help infants and toddlers reach their highest potential.

2. Early Intervention in Speech-Language: Empowering Parents

- Karyn Lewis Searcy, M.A., CCC-SLP

Parents of young children with language delays are frequently unsure how to stimulate interaction and communication. This presentation will provide video interviews reflecting the "ambiguous loss" experienced by parents of early start children with communication disorders. A specific curriculum that has been used effectively with parents and their children, and strategies used to provide successful parent coaching will be reviewed, and demonstrated via videos.

3. 10 Things a Caretaker Can do to Build a Positive Relationship with their Child - David Love, Ph.D.

At each developmental stage of life there are important things a caretaker can do to support their child and promote a healthy and happy childhood. This workshop will discuss strategies to promote this process. It also will examine how children develop positive self-esteem and empathy and the role of caretakers.

4. Rules of Engagement - Debbie Link, OTR

Many children with sensory processing disorder have difficulty with relationships and interacting with others. In this session we will explore some of those difficulties and ways to actively engage your child, not just with sensory activities that will benefit them, but doing the activity engaged with others.

5. Don't throw that away! Engaging DIY Toys for toddlers

This session will allow parents and professionals to have fun creating toys using simple items from around the home. Supplies will be provided and participants may take what they make. The session will be self-directed, and registration for this session will be limited.

LUNCHNoon - 1:00 pm

PM BREAKOUT SESSIONS1:00 pm – 2:15 pm

6. Understanding and Supporting Challenging Behaviors

- Mona Delahooke, Ph.D.

Challenging behaviors are a common reason families seek help for their young children. In this workshop, Dr. Delahooke will explain how challenging behaviors are actually adaptations that children make subconsciously to manage stress. This new lens for understanding behaviors leads to more effective, developmentally appropriate ways of understanding them and supporting children and families.

7. Early Intervention in Speech-Language: Empowering Parents

- Karyn Lewis Searcy, M.A., CCC-SLP

This is a repeat of session #2. Parents of young children with language delays are frequently unsure how to stimulate interaction and communication. This presentation will provide video interviews reflecting the "ambiguous loss" experienced by parents of early start children with communication disorders. A specific curriculum that has been used effectively with parents and their children, and strategies used to provide successful parent coaching will be reviewed, and demonstrated via videos.

8. Children Dealing with Trauma - David Love, Ph.D.

Twenty five per cent of children attending K-6 are the survivors of childhood trauma. This workshop will present the signs and symptoms of childhood trauma, how to support traumatized children and community resources for these young people. One of the most common symptoms of childhood trauma is dysregulation. Techniques to help these children will be practiced.

9. Don't throw that away! Engaging DIY Toys for toddlers

This is a repeat of session #5. This session will allow parents and professionals to have fun creating toys using simple items from around the home. Supplies will be provided and participants may take what they make. The session will be self-directed, and registration for this session will be limited.
